Revaluation will lower Bethel's tax rate but not homeowners' bills

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel's tax rate for the coming fiscal year is poised to drop sharply, but the bills that go out to taxpayers in late September are likely to hold pretty steady, at least on average.

Under the new town budget proposal hammered out by selectmen and the members of the Budget Committee, the tax rate would drop by a third, from $17.86 for FY07 to $11.96 for FY08.

But at the same time the town's valuation will increase by 58 percent — as the result of a townwide revaluation that has been underway for the past year and a half.

Overall, the town's valuation is projected to increase from the current $221,328,581 to $350,000,000.

So, while taxpayers will see a lower rate, they will be paying that rate on more highly valued properties, particularly residential properties.

The new budget calls for municipal spending (excluding county and school levies) to increase by 9.8 percent, to $3,086,901 for FY08 compared to $2,812,048 for the current year.

But anticipated non-tax revenues are also up, to $1,484,150 for FY08 compared to $1,211,697 for the current year.

This means that net municipal expenditure (expenditure less non-tax revenues) will increase by only .1 percent, to $1,602,751 for FY08 from $1,600,351 for the current year.

When the projected county and school taxes ($234,394 and $2,348,000 respectively) are added to the town expenses, the total appropriation (less revenues) for the coming year will be $4,185,189, which is up 5.9 percent, or $233,260, from the current year's commitment of $3,952,929.

Next week: an overview of the more significant increases or decreases in individual budget lines.

Hanover sets public hearing on requiring subdivider to upgrade section of S. Shore Rd.

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Hanover Planning Board will hold a public hearing April 18 on whether to require a developer to upgrade the South Shore Road.

William Kohut of Dover, N.H. has proposed a three-lot subdivision off the road, which is not maintained by the town in the winter.

Town ordinance requires that such roads be upgraded for year-round use if a subdivision is created.

Currently property owners pay privately to have the road plowed, according to Clem Worcester, town clerk and secretary to the Planning Board.

The section of road in question is about 600 feet long, he said. The road is paved up to the site of the proposed subdivision.

"At this time we are unsure of what the upgrade would entail, because no standard has been set," he said.

Waiver requested

Main-Land Development of Livermore Falls, representing Kohut, has requested the board waive the upgrade requirement.

Instead, people purchasing the lots would simply be notified that the road is not maintained in the winter, according to meeting minutes.

The waiver request has prompted several concerns, Worcester said.

Deadline for overflight comments extended

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The National Guard Bureau has extended until May 14 the deadline for accepting comments on a proposal to lower the training floor for military aircraft over western Maine to 500 feet.

The original deadline had been April 13.

The extension came at the urging of U.S. Sen. Susan Collins, following a visit she made last week to western Maine.

Collins said that on the visit, she "heard concerns from those who would be directly affected by low-level training flights over that part of our state. It is important that those voices be heard in this debate."

Public Meetings

In addition to delaying the deadline, the Guard Bureau scheduled three public meetings "to provide information to the public and solicit information from the public" regarding the plan.

The first of those meetings was held Wednesday evening in Mexico (too late for inclusion in this week's Citizen). Another is scheduled for this evening, Thursday, at 6 p.m. at the Moscow Elementary School.

An additional meeting has been tentatively scheduled for May 1 in Rangeley, time and location TBA.

Guard: Training space needed

If approved, the changes would affect the Condor Military Operating Areas, which overlie more than 5,000 square miles of western Maine (map, page 4).

Currently military aircraft training in Condor are allowed to fly no lower than 2,800 feet above ground level (or 5,000 feet above mean sea level).

The proposed change originates with the 102nd Fighter Wing based at Otis Air National Guard Base in Massachusetts.

The Fighter Wing flies F-15s, and argues that it currently has insufficient low-level training space.

Winter that refused to arrive, now refuses to leave

The only bright spots lately in the local weather outlook have been the photographer's flash reflecting off still more snowflakes. In an apparent attempt to make up for winter's mild start, Mother Nature has brought February-style weather to western Maine for early April. At about 7:30 a.m. last Thursday, a jogger had Main Street in Bethel nearly to herself as a storm dumped about 15 inches of heavy, wet snow on the area. Colder than normal temperatures have preserved much of the white stuff into this week — with more forecast for today (Thursday). And beyond that, more lovely "wintery mix."

Winter recreation at risk from global warming

By ALISON ALOISIO

A New Hampshire climate researcher has some sobering facts for western Maine, where the economy relies heavily on winter recreation.

Over the past 30 to 35 years: The average number of days per year with snow on the ground has declined by 10 to 15 in western Maine, and by 20 to 25 in Portland.

The average winter temperature in New England has climbed 4.3 degrees.

Ice-out days on New Hampshire lakes are now, on average, eight days earlier.

"What climate are you going to give to your children?" University of New Hampshire researcher Cameron Wake recently asked an audience of Bethel-area residents.

The Mahoosuc Land Trust sponsored a lecture by Wake, who is a research associate professor at the UNH Climate Change Research Center.

Wake presented the results of recent studies on climate activity has produced more carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

Fossil fuel emissions, for example, contain carbon dioxide. And the loss of trees — which remove carbon dioxide

"We have dramatically changed the climate system," he said.

While the average annual temperature in the Northeast has risen by 1.8 degrees in 30 years, Wake said, the 4.3-degree climb in the winter average is "a shocker."

To illustrate the different effect of cold and warm winters on the northern New England economy, Wake presented New Hampshire figures on the number of snowmobile registrations, ice fishing licenses and alpine and Nordic skier days in recent winters.

The smaller numbers observed during mild winters translated to an average loss of $13 million in revenue and change and winter recreation. He also provided climate projections for the 21st century and their implications.

Global warming

Scientists believe that when the levels of carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere rise, there is a corresponding rise in temperatures.

They also believe human from the atmosphere — can contribute to higher levels of the gas.

Over the past 30 years, said Wake, there has been a temperature increase equivalent to the natural increase that takes place between glacial and interglacial geologic ages — a period of thousands of years.

Workshop will explore options for building 'sustainable' homes

By ALISON ALOISIO

Current and prospective homeowners can learn how to build and maintain energy efficient homes at Saturday's Sustainable Building Showcase in Bethel.

The showcase, scheduled for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Lewin Center, (Gehring House) on Broad Street, is sponsored by the organization Sustainable Western Maine.

The daylong event grew out of last year's successful Sustainability Speaker Series at the Norway Library, organizers said.

"We wanted to do [something similar] here in Bethel," said Kim Patnode, co-director of the showcase.

The Bethel version will allow participants to learn about multiple energy efficient building techniques in a single day.

Among the topics covered in the eight workshops: super insulated houses, earth-sheltered homes, monolithic slab foundations and insulated concrete forms.

Local engineer Jim Sysko will describe a 900-square-foot home he built into a hillside, said Patnode.

The home is so efficient that a single fire in a small woodstove will heat it for a day in the winter, she said.

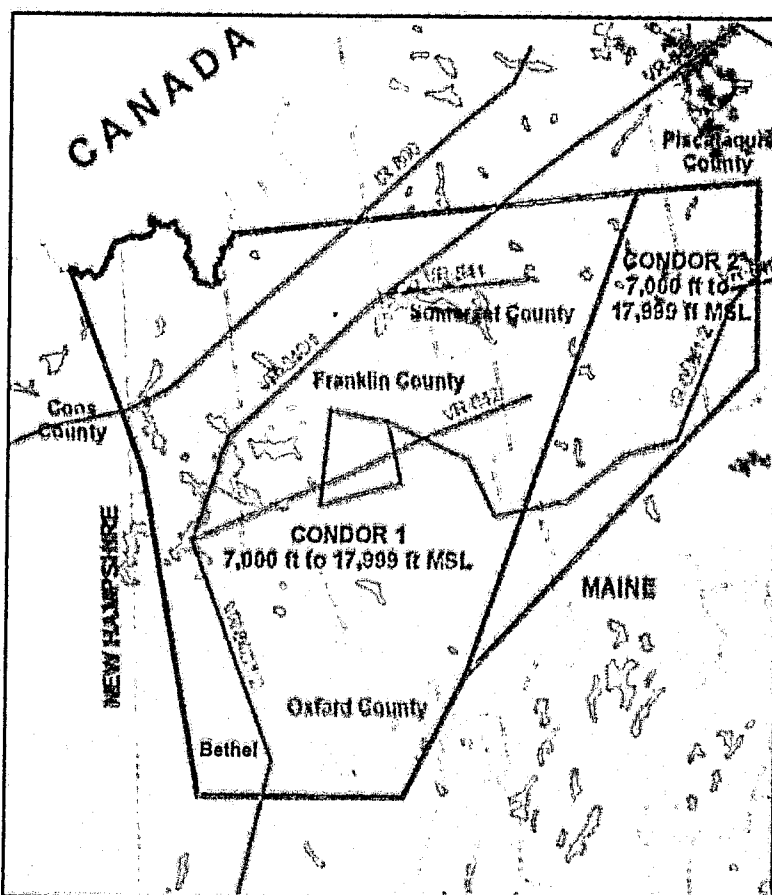

Monolithic slab foundations feature tubing filled with antifreeze, embedded in a concrete slab.

The circulating antifreeze is heated, bringing the slab to a temperature of 80 degrees and provides a very efficient heating system, Patnode said.

"You don't even need slippers," she said.

U.T. PROPOSAL'S IMPACT

To the Editor:

I am writing to clarify the effect of Representative Tim Carter's bill LD484, which proposes that the unorganized territory pay its fair share of education costs for K-12 students from the unorganized territory.

At present, state law requires the unorganized territory and other sending units to pay tuition at the lesser of average state cost or actual cost for high school students, but the actual cost for elementary students. Rep. Carter proposed that the actual cost be used, resulting in higher tuition for Bethel and all other locations in the unorganized territory whose actual cost for secondary student tuition is higher than the state average. Any increased cost to the unorganized territory would be spread over the entire territory. Thus, the impact on individual taxpayers is lessened and the residents/taxpayers of Albany, Mason and Milton would not pay for the entire increase of costs.

ST. NEVER'S DAY SALE

To the Editor:

Once again, the Bethel Historical Society will hold its annual St. Never's Day Sale on my side lawn at 18 Broad Street (corner of Mason and Broad). This year's sale will be on Saturday, May 26. We expect to have the usual tent for our sales, but also offer tables for rent to anyone who wishes to join us.

Since spring cleaning is often a common activity at this time of the year, we are asking for donations of saleable items in good condition (please no clothing, computers or computer equipment). These donated items can be left on the back porch of the O'Neil Robinson House, 10 Broad Street, or on my driveway side porch at 18 Broad Street at any time. If pick-up is necessary, please give us a call at 824-2908 to make arrangements.

SUNRISE SERVICE AND THANKS

To the Editor:

Sunday River Christian Ministry is a group of joy-filled, dedicated Christians who have worshiped at Sunday River since Oct. 1999. Each year, we have conducted an Easter Mountaintop Sunrise Service for local folks, winter sports enthusiasts and curious visitors.

This year, despite rather cold temperatures, over 250 people of all ages rode the safe chairlift over a pond, ascended above an intriguing terrain park full of jumps, smoothly rode above an expert slope of snow hills (moguls) and valleys, then were assisted off the lift to gather with the rest of the worshippers.

More than 150 of these attendees reported that it was their first time at the Sunday River Easter Mountaintop Sunrise Service; in addition, many said that they had never ridden a chairlift before! Up and Down!

To enable us to conduct this unique welcome to Easter, many thanks are heartily given. First to the Rev. Don Coverdale for his continued leadership and spiritual love for all; his Easter messages brought special warmth and inspiration, as always. Our area is blessed to have Cynthia Libby, who shared her heavenly voice and heartfelt lyrics. Handclapping sounds very different when produced with hands in gloves and mittens. New this year was Dennis Coldwell's great sound system; his generous sharing of quality equipment really enabled the crowd to hear the Easter message, despite the mountain winds.

About 75 items were collected for the Bethel Food Pantry, ranging from basics to dog biscuits, to boxes of diapers. We will definitely continue this bridge to the community, serving our neighbors in need. Thanks to the special quiet folks who contributed, and helped get the items where they should be.

So many great folks from Sunday River helped — the staff in Marketing, and Mountain Ops, the sweet woman who gave out the single-ride tickets and then slipped a tiny chocolate egg into our hands when we finished, the caring folks who helped unsure and slightly scared first-timers to maneuver the chairlift and platform, the patrollers who watched over the first-trackers celebrating a glorious Easter morning as we all smiled and went to "Go Tell It On the Mountain!"

Peace be with you!

APPALLED BY IMPEACH BUSH MOVEMENT

To the Editor:

While Seabury Lyon applauds the impeach Bush movement, I am appalled by it. Impeach him because he has firmly stood up to the terrorist threat to our nation, has prevented another attack on our soil, has taken the fight to them. No, I don't think so. History will most likely record President Bush as one of our most effective presidents. He came along at a time when our country needed a strong leader. I praise God for President Bush.

I also praise God that Seabury and I can live in the same community, shop in the same stores and not be in fear of each other. There is no concern that either of us will strap explosives around our children's bodies and send them over to the other's home for dinner and when all have gathered, set the explosives off, killing and maiming as many as possible. As unbelievable as that sounds that is the kind of tactic that the terrorists have employed against those of differing views. These people are brutal and they want nothing else but to destroy our way of life. President Bush's efforts are to keep that kind of thing out of the United States of America and I applaud him for his success.

Another thing I applaud President Bush for is the attempt to democratize a Middle Eastern country. This is probably the most outstanding act to secure the future of our grandchildren's children by any of our politicians, ever. A stable democratic government in that region of the world will go a long way toward a more peaceful world. The foresight and courage of President Bush to promote democracy in a part of the world that has never known "self-government" should be recognized and applauded by us all. Whether it works or not, it is a bold move and he should receive our support of having the guts to go for it.

Life is pretty good in these United States right now, let's keep it that way. Support your government, keep the partisan bickering to a healthy level, love your neighbor.

WAKE UP AMERICA, NO. 2

To the Editor:

Question, is the warfare in Iraq a feasible mechanism to impede the spread of global terrorism sponsored by the Al-Qaida network?

Initially, I will concede that the opinions of a seventy-seven year old that never finished high school might warrant very little credibility. What credentials I profess, come not from education but from avocation, rock climbing, ice climbing and skydiving. In these realms, it is imperative that the consequence of every move must be prudently considered before that move is ever made, because once committed, there is often no feasible avenue of retreat.

The decision to launch a full-scale military invasion of another country was a decision of such monumental consequence and implication, that it should have been warranted only by the most absolute and compelling circumstance. The wisdom and benefit of initiating an endeavor of that drastic magnitude was regarded with an intense degree of skepticism by the vast majority of a concerned general public. Obviously prudence was not a virtue of those in charge, for we are now committed to, and trapped in, a multi-faction conflict from which there is no graceful means of exit.

For an entity that is already deemed in the area as being self serving, to step in and exert its own intent by means of massive military might, is bound to meet with every possible diabolically devised means of opposition, and subject to the possibility of becoming nothing more than a prolonged, costly and demeaning exercise in futility.

The original intent and prime premise of this ill-advised endeavor was to find and eliminate Saddam Hussein's weapons of mass destruction. The extreme and costly measures employed to ascertain that no such threat existed, left no feasible avenue of escape and no credible reason for having initiated the action in the first place. It's the contention of those who initiated this conflict, that it is imperative that we stand firm till we win. To win would be to achieve a specific objective. The only redeeming objective in this case would be to establish a permanent, self-sustaining western-style democracy in Iraq that would remain beholden to our interests, and at the same time acceptable to all the belligerent ideologies and religious factions involved.

Regardless of how noble the intent or appealing the concept, it now undeniable obvious, by the internal strife in Iraq, and the vehement opposition in the whole surrounding area, that such an intrusion will never be graced by regional acceptance.

The new and supposed redeeming strategy in this ongoing fiasco is the present surge of troops. Granted, a sufficiently intensified military presence would serve to temporarily quell the activity of the insurgence impede the incidence of sectarian violence, and create a cosmetic illusion of prevailing civility.

What have we achieved in the four years that this conflict has been in progress? We have managed to pry the lid off a Pandora's box of hatred and hostility that will surely overwhelm any attempt at reconciliation. Over 3,000 of our service men and women have lost their lives. Over 20,000 have been wounded or injured. Thousands of young people in this country are going through an irretrievable portion of their existence, deprived of the presence of one or both of their parents. Billions of dollars are being drained from our national treasury to sponsor an enterprise with no end in sight, and as yet no promise of a positive conclusion. The attention of general populace of this country is engrossed in and polarized by the uncertainty of the outcome of that which is taking place. The aggressive nature in which we are conducting this mission has alienated many in the area and around the world who might otherwise be more considerate of our interests.

It has long been the publicly stated objective of the Al-Qaida network to kill Americans, demean the economic status of this country, disrupt the American way of life and incite derisive dissension in the collective unity of the American people.

Taking into consideration the desires and intent of our adversaries and weighing it against what we have thus far achieved in this debacle, one might be at odds to conclude who it is that is coming out on the positive side of this equation.

Global terrorism as a threat to the American way of life would rate as public enemy No. 2.

There exists a more lethal threat that would rate as public enemy No. 1. That threat will be visited in the subject of Wake Up America, No. 1.

BASKET BINGO THANKS

To the Editor:

The Friends of Telstar would like to thank all the businesses, families and individuals who sponsored and filled our beautiful baskets during our recent basket bingo fundraiser. We would also like to thank those who took the time to come out and play bingo in support of the students of Telstar. Special thanks are given to our wonderful volunteers. Thanks go to Anna Saucier, who was our basket girl for the entire event. Many thanks go to Deanna Ryerson, Brent Gordon and Sheila Fleet for helping wherever needed. A big thank you to Sally Ann Haley, who was our fantastic cook. She prepared and served our refreshments and left the kitchen spotless! Thank you to Robin Smith for her time and expertise in ordering our beautiful baskets. Thank you to Kelly Myers, Barb Dumont, Susan Gordon and Brenda Wight for helping out that day. The Friends of Telstar sincerely thank our friends from the Jackson Silver Post/Locke Mills Legion for hosting our annual bingo fundraiser.

Our Basket Bingo fundraiser was very successful. Thanks to the many people and businesses who supported us with our efforts by sponsoring a basket. They include: Chadbourne Tree Farms, True North Adventure, Bethel Kitchen Designs, Gaudreau's Repair, Maine Custom Builders, Crossroads Diner and Deli, Brooks Bros, Inc, Remax in the Mountains, Bethel Citizen, Cinnamon Stick Cafe, Maine Line Products, Swan's Corner Farm, Good Food Store, Robin Smith, Ruthie's, Bethel Station Chiropractic, W.J. FUTURE LEADERS ATTEND CONFERENCE

To the Editor:

The Future Business Leaders of America from Telstar Regional High School participated in the Maine State Leadership Conference in South Portland in March. Twenty-nine students attended the event. They all took part in business-related testing, business workshops, leadership sessions, motivational speakers, and spirit activities.

Many of the Telstar F.B.L.A. students received awards for business, communications, and computer skill testing. They include: first place, Katlyn Keane, Parliamentary Procedure (she was offered the State Board Parliamentary position); second place, Lissa Piccirillo, C++ Programming; second place, Aly Stevens, F.B.L.A. Principals and Procedures; second place, Brian Annis, Introduction to Technology; third place, Mat Lauro, Business Math; third place, Brandon Roberts, Business Procedures; third place, Megan Bonney, Business Communications; third place, Brian Annis, Technology Concepts; third place, Michelle Aron, Introduction to Parliamentary Procedures. Thomas Henley was nominated, through interview, to serve on next year's Maine State F.B.L.A. Board as the State Reporter. This will be a great chance for Thomas to extend his leadership skills and earn scholarship money as well. Chapter Advisor, Jennifer Bennett, will also serve on the Maine State Advisory Board. Our special thanks go out to Project Opportunity. Without their generous contribution this two-day leadership excursion would not have been possible. Project Opportunity is a wonderful asset to the students in this community and we highly encourage you to help them out with a donation during their next annual appeal.

F.B.L.A. is always looking for volunteer opportunities. We are currently working on next year's program of works, so if anyone has a project in mind contact Jennifer Bennett at Telstar High School.

An FAA "circularization" regarding the proposal makes the case as follows:

"Operation of the F-15 involves flying at all altitudes from surface to 50,000-plus feet. Pilot operational and training requirements require missions to be accomplished in not only the high and medium altitude regimes, but also at low altitudes. Currently Low-Altitude Awareness Training (LOWAT) is not being accomplished because the minimum altitudes of Condor 1 and Condor 2 MOAs (7,000 feet MSL) do not support this requirement. LOWAT events include developing skills necessary to seek out, and engage offensively, an aerial target at low altitude.

"The lack of sufficient training airspace reduces the pilot's ability to conduct real-world intercepts safely and effectively. This proposal, if approved, will correct this situation by establishing the Condor Low MOA with the designated altitude of 500 feet AGL to, but not including, 7,000 feet MSL."

90 missions annually, most multi-plane

According to the circularization: "Typical usage [primarily by F-15s] will be an average of 1 to 2 missions per week (4 aircraft per mission), 25-

40 minutes per mission. This will amount to approximately 78 missions per year, totaling 50 hours per year."

Occasional use by other, generally higher flying single aircraft would add another dozen yearly missions, according to the document.

Earlier proposal dropped
In the early 1990s the National Guard made a similar proposal, in that case attempting to have the flight floor dropped to 300 feet above ground level.

The proposal drew fire from many residents of the region and from the state's Congressional delegation.

Then U.S. Sen. Bill Cohen summed up the feelings of many.

Referring to a Draft Environmental Impact Statement on the proposed changes, Cohen—who later became President Clinton's Secretary of Defense—said: "The statement clearly acknowledges the fact that the proposed flights would result in increased air and noise pollution, would greatly increase safety hazards and would have a negative impact on western Maine's wilderness, endangered species such as the peregrine falcon and bald eagle, and historic properties."

"Low-flying military aircraft would shatter the solitude of this airspace and cause undue hardship on the well-being of residents and visitors alike and fundamentally alter the character of western Maine."

The early-90s proposal was ultimately dropped.

On Monday, the Bethel Board of Selectmen declined to take a formal position on the National Guard's latest proposal.

"I was in the Air National Guard and I know how important these missions are," said Selectman Dennis Doyon.

Address for comments
Written public comments concerning the proposal should be addressed to: NGB/A7CVN, Attention Lt. Col. Landon Jones, 3500 Fetcher Avenue, Andrews AFB, MD 20762.

A copy of the Draft Environmental Assessment for the proposal can be found on The Citizen homepage: www.bethelcitizen.com. (The document is in the form of a large PDF file and is not recommended for downloading on dial-up internet connections.)

Hard copies of the DEA are available for review in the Rumford Public Library, 56 Rumford Ave.

The Bethel Library has requested copies, but had not received them as of The Citizen's press time Wednesday afternoon.

Warming

3,000 seasonal jobs.

The bigger picture

Outside the region's parochial concerns, there is worry about rising sea levels caused by melting ice caps and glaciers.

The number of icebergs generated by melting glaciers in Greenland, said Wake, has doubled in the past decade.

And owners of low-lying property on Cape Cod and Long Island are now finding it harder to buy homeowners insurance, he said.

Precipitation patterns also appear to be changing. More intense rainstorms are happening more often in the Northeast, and could force towns and cities to change their stormwater infrastructure to accommodate higher volumes of runoff, he said.

Two models

Carbon dioxide emissions remain in the atmosphere for about 100 years after they are produced, Wake said.

"Even if we reduce emissions, there will still be a buildup," he said. "But if we invest in efficiency, and make it a priority, we might be able to stabilize [the climate]."

Wake described two models of how global warming could affect the Northeast as this century progresses.

The models, which he described as "plausible story lines," were created by the Northeast Climate Impacts Assessment.

One model assumes that we continue on the current "higher emissions path," of fossil fuel use, while the other follows a lower emissions path, with a significant increase in the use of renewable energy.

Over the next few decades, under either scenario, the climate will continue to change at a pace similar to that which is already taking place, Wake said.

But the difference would become apparent by the middle and latter part of the century. He used as an example sum-

'I see the glass as half full. When people understand this, I think we will unleash our capitalist system on it. This country is always at its greatest when faced with a formidable challenge.'

CAMERON WAKE
UNH Climate Scientist

mer days in Boston during which temperatures top 90 degrees. Currently, there are an average of nine such days.

Under a high emissions scenario, those days would increase late in the century to about 65.

Under a low emissions scenario, the number would be about 30.

Europe and Japan are already taking action to curb climate change, he said, and the U.S. needs to act also.

"I see the glass as half full," said Wake. "When people understand this, I think we will unleash our capitalist system on it. This country is always at its greatest when faced with a formidable challenge."

Act locally

Wake suggested that people "act as a family" to do their part, by switching to compact fluorescent light bulbs, replacing old appliances with more efficient ones, upgrading their homes to be more energy-efficient and buying cars that get good mileage.

In the larger community, people can work to make their companies more energy efficient and, he said, "don't elect a politician who doesn't have a plan to deal with global warming."

Because the Bethel region is dependent on winter recreation, said Wake, "It would make sense for Bethel to think seriously about becoming a model (energy-efficient) town."

Action rally planned

On Saturday, April 14, a Climate Change Action Rally will take place on the Bethel Common.

The 9 a.m. gathering is intended to send a message to elected officials. Organizers said they want action now to counter climate change. Participants will gather briefly to sign a petition and take a group photo. The event is on a nationwide day of climate change activities.

titled "Green Restoration," will address ways owners of older homes can make them more energy efficient.

Examples include improvements or updates to heating systems and insulation.

The day's events will also include a panel discussion among homeowners and/or builders on super-efficient homes, living off the grid and affordable construction/renovation methods, said Pat-node. For more information on the showcase, see this week's Community Calendar on Page 14, visit www.SustainableWesternMaine.org or call 824-0426.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

All of you who like potato chips raise your hand. I guess that's just about everyone. I'm sure there are some people who don't like them, but I don't think I've ever encountered a potato chip hater. Even one of my grandchildren, who doesn't like much of anything, loves potato chips.

I periodically snack on the salty, crispy snack, but it's not because I don't like them; it's because I so very much do. I like them way too much. For me, potato chips are definitely what Weight Watcher's call a "red light" food. Once I start munching on them I just can't stop.

Though potato chips are not the sole culprit in my ever-expanding waistline, they certainly are a major contributor. I eat them when I'm happy. I eat them when I'm bored. I especially find solace in potato chips when I'm frustrated and angry.

There is a bit of irony there because potato chips were created out of frustration and anger. Not as a comfort food as in my case, but as an act of rebellion that backfired.

It all started in 1853 at the Moose Lake Lodge Restaurant in Saratoga Springs, New York. One of the most popular items on the menu was French-fried potatoes, which had been enjoyed by Americans ever since Thomas Jefferson brought the recipe back from France in the 1700's. Moose Lake Lodge was known for having exceptional French-fries due to the culinary talents of George Crum, the head chef.

One day a very picky customer rejected George's French-fries on the grounds that they were much too thick for his liking. George was quite offended, but being the good chef that he was, he cut a thinner version in an effort to satisfy the unhappy customer.

The diner thought the second batch of French-fries were still too thick and sent them back to the kitchen with no compliments to the chef.

To say that George was insulted, frustrated and angry would be an understatement. At this point he didn't care if the guest got up and walked out of the restaurant. To prove this, Chef Crum produced French-fries that were way too thin and crisp to be skewered with a fork.

As it turned out, the guest was thrilled over the browned paper-thin potatoes. He was so thrilled in fact, that his excitement drew the attention of other guests who wanted to try this new creation too.

I'm sure there are some people who don't like them, but I don't think I've ever encountered a potato chip hater.

The next thing you knew, Saratoga Chips became a house specialty. They became so popular that Moose Lake Lodge began to package them and sell them throughout the Northeast and junk food was born.

George eventually opened his own restaurant featuring his chips as a main feature. He, however, had to employ a number of people just to hand peel and slice the potatoes, which were a dinner entrée just as the French-fries were.

In 1920 someone, might even have been George, invented the mechanical potato peeler.

That machine and a man named Herman Lay changed the Northern dinner dish into America's best loved snack food. Thank you very much Herman.

Herman, a traveling salesman, so loved the potato chips and knew a good thing when he ate them, bought huge quantities of the product and traveled throughout the South talking grocers into selling this wonderful new snack food called "Lay's Potato Chips."

The rest, as they say, is history. And now Americans, me especially, consume more potato chips than anywhere in the world. And to think back to colonial times when potatoes were grown, not for human consumption, but for pig food. That makes some sense considering that I can make quite a pig of myself with potato chips.

But, here's the interesting part: the early settlers didn't shun potatoes because they didn't like them. Oh no, they didn't eat them because they believed that spuds in any form shortened a person's life.

And though French-fries, fried potatoes and potato chips with all the fat and salt can, no doubt, lead to health problems and indeed shorten a person's life, the colonists knew nothing of this. They refused to eat potatoes because they believed them to be, get ready for this, an aphrodisiac, which led to behavior that would eventually be a life ender. I guess that behavior in pigs was not considered a problem because their lives were going to be short anyway.

Can you believe that? Potatoes as an aphrodisiac? Well, the way I see it, that just may be the case with potato chips because as my favorite snack food, they certainly do turn me on!

"There are larger parcels farther in on the road," said Worcester, and the board is concerned future developers might make the same request.

That concern is coupled with those of selectmen and abutters along the pond about the possible negative impact of development on the road.

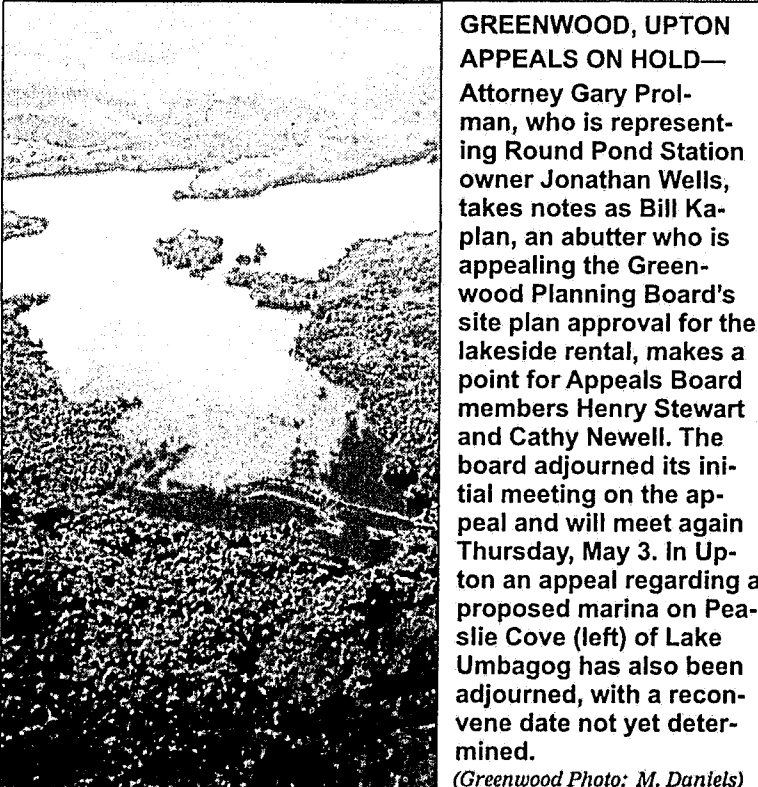

Selectmen believe that winter use has already necessitated more spring maintenance on the road, according to Planning Board minutes.

And, said Worcester, there are worries that development could increase the amount of runoff into the pond.

Culverts in the area already back up during periods of heavy rain, he said.

The hearing will start at 6 p.m. at the Hanover Town House.

GREENWOOD, UPTON APPEALS ON HOLD— Attorney Gary Prolman, who is representing Round Pond Station owner Jonathan Wells, takes notes as Bill Kaplan, an abutter who is appealing the Greenwood Planning Board's site plan approval for the lakeside rental, makes a point for Appeals Board members Henry Stewart and Cathy Newell. The board adjourned its initial meeting on the appeal and will meet again Thursday, May 3. In Upton an appeal regarding a proposed marina on Peaslee Cove (left) of Lake Umbagog has also been adjourned, with a reconvene date not yet determined.

Peter and Stacey Keniston, Sarah, Elise and Drew enjoyed Easter dinner and visiting with Bob and Ginny Keniston on Easter Sunday. Jack and Sue Cross are on vacation in Puerto Rico.

Cross Country Quilters attended the Area 3 meeting in Jay on Tuesday, April 10. Marlee Carter spoke on "Threads and Needles," how important in quilting.

The Red Hats have been invited to attend dress rehearsal of the Senior Players on Thursday, April 12.

Family dinner guests on Sunday of Mike and Kathy Davis' in Norway included Colwyn Haskell, Greg and Jean Waite, Alex and Amy Davis.

As I walked by the Bethel Inn garages this week a flock of cedar waxwings were eating the red berries on those lovely trees.

Easter brings many families together for celebration!

Tom and Dawn Giroux returned from three months in Myrtle Beach just in time to snow blow the driveway — only 18 inches of snow!

George and Danna Nickerson, Arlene G. Brown, Kate and Nate Wight, and Charles Pendexter were Easter dinner guests of Kurt and Tammy Brown at their home in Westbrook on Sunday.

Weekend visitors with Henry and Betty Robertson were Vickie Robertson, Jean and Glenn Ramsay, and Merry Ann Harkins.

Hi and Mary Lou Berry were entertained by the Mary Lou's family over the weekend of April 6-8. Those having a great time sledding skiing and snowboarding were Mary Lou and Roger Killelea, Walpole, Mass.; Allyson, George, Jake and Meg Gartley from Webster, Mass.; Jennifer, Eli and Liam Porter from Florida. Sunday night the silence at Lone Pine was deafening. What fun each and everyone had!

Bette Gilbert served Easter dinner for family and friends at her home on Easter Sunday. Those attending were Randy and Riley Gilbert, West Bethel; Kayce and Jacy Gilbert, Bethel; Ronald, Karen, and Zachary Gilbert, South Paris; Justen, Nicole, Natatalie Gilbert, Berlin, N.H.; Elaine Johnson and Dale, Lisa, Danielle, Dylan and Dante Allen, Norway; Alta Smith and Richard Meserve, Albany. Invited but unable to attend were Phyllis Bancroft of South Paris and Amanda Gilbert of Bethel.

MMRT RECOGNIZED FOR RESCUE ASSISTANCE

Maine game wardens Norm Lewis, Sgt. Rick Mills and Steve Allarie met last week with the members of Mahoosuc Mountain Rescue volunteers at Outward Bound in Newry. The groups discussed past search and rescue operations, evaluating strengths and weaknesses and ways to improve, Allarie said. The Maine Warden Service also recognized 15 of the 35 active volunteer members of MMRT for their service. Allarie presented IF&W limited edition Commissioner's Print paintings to Bob Baribeau, director of MMRT, and his members. The team has assisted the Maine Warden Service in the more serious mountain searches and rescues on the Appalachian Trail and other mountains in the Oxford and Franklin counties area. The volunteers are often utilized because of their extensive mountain training and experience. Last year they helped with several search and rescues that extended through the night into the next day. Allarie also expressed appreciation to volunteers from local fire departments and members of the public for their assistance.

Enough already with the winter weather! I know, I did a lot of wishing for snow, but that was in winter, not spring! Last Wednesday was the last straw. The fourth of April, and we measured 15 inches of snow at the Hoehstead.

We have now broken a 20-year record for snowfall in April, and the month isn't even half over. There have been around 77 inches so far for the season, which puts us well beyond the "low" mark. Oh, for some warmth, sunshine, and greenery!

Apologies all round: Last week I wrote about the falcon at the Nickersons' feeder. Our neighbor, Lesley Rowse, a local expert on peregrines, let me know that the bird in question was not a peregrine as we had thought, but rather a sharp-shinned hawk. Mike and I should have known better and looked more carefully at our Sibley's bird book. Well, it's a good day — we learned something.

And speaking of raptors, we witnessed one of Nature's cruel moments the other day when a juvenile sharp-shinned hawk captured and killed a blue jay close to our feeders. I saw this strange dark shape next to one of the trees out back, and a look through the binoculars revealed that it was said hawk sitting atop the struggling jay. The two are close in size, but the hawk's talons and strength outmatched those of the jay. C'est la vie.

Last Friday Jane Hosterman and Barbara Mahler joined the Senior Citizens group from the Rumford area on a trip to Portland to see the Disney on Ice program, which they enjoyed mightily. On the way the group stopped for early dinner at the Country Buffet.

The congregation of the West Bethel Union Church attended an Easter sunrise service at 6:15 a.m. on Sunday at the home of Rupert and Ina Grover. It was reported to be one of the more beautiful sunrises in recent memory. As usual it was followed by a grand breakfast of a strata casserole prepared by Nancy Grover, supplemented by fruit, rolls, and muffins brought by several attendees. Later, folks donned their Sunday-go-to-meetin' clothes and attended the regular 9 a.m. service at the church.

Jane Hosterman was a dinner guest of Dave and Kathy DiGruttola on Sunday eve-

RAISING THE BENT
A Mahoosuc Timberframe crew raises one of four "bents" that will form the frame of a 24-by-32-foot, two-story home off the East Bethel Road. The frame, which will be joined entirely by traditional pegs and wedges, was locally milled out of white pine and oak. Company owner Jeff Herberger (second from right) welcomes anyone interested in timberframing to drop by and check out the new building. The site is located about three miles out from Route 26.

and Daren Worcester from Hooksett, N.H., along with Dave Worcester and Rose Hutchins had Easter dinner with Gail and Bill Worcester. Matt and Jenny Terrill shared Easter dinner with Donna and Clem Worcester. Brian and Kay Worcester and Sara Clark joined Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Clark and other relatives for Easter dinner.

Looking a little bit into the future, Saturday, May 5, has been selected as the annual Town of Hanover clean-up day. So mark your calendar and be ready to work at 8 a.m., if the snow has melted enough by then.

Gardner Roberts Memorial Library Association will meet on Thursday, April 19, at 6 p.m. at the Hanover Town Office. It is expected the members will discuss moving books and furniture out of the library in anticipation of the building being moved to the new location near the Hanover Town Office.

Hi folks. I hope everyone had a nice Easter Day. Instead of making a big Easter dinner at home this year we did something different and went out to eat at the Northlands in New Hampshire. We hadn't been there forever — well since it burned and was rebuilt. I ended up having the roast pork, Kelsey had prime rib and Doug and Sarah had fried clams. The only complaint was that we asked if the clams were in batter or crumbs, and the waitress said, batter, which is what we like. Well when they arrived they were in crumbs, and the waitress still claimed that that was what they call batter! Oh well, they still tasted good.

hing. Jane reports that after arising very early, attending two services, and enjoying a delicious Easter dinner with Dave and Kathy, she was ready for an early night and turned off the lights at about 8:30 p.m.

As I write this on Monday morning, it is once again snowing, albeit lightly, and I find myself dreaming of hot August days. I know — when that comes, I'll probably complain of the heat. Some people are never satisfied.

In news of visitors to the area, Barbara Mahler hosted her daughter and son-in-law over the weekend. Also Lynn and Bud Kulik are back in town and currently staying at Stony Brook Campground. Welcome back!

On Saturday, April 14, at 7 p.m., and Sunday, April 15, at 2:30 p.m., the Senior Players of Bethel's Senior College will be presenting their spring production of several short plays at the McLaughlin Science Center Auditorium on the Gould campus. Yours truly will be appearing in three of the plays, and we hope you will come and watch our performances. Admission is free!

Don't forget to let me know how you are acting up. Write to dhoe@megalink.net or call me at 836-3011.

On Easter Day Mark prepared a very nice dinner for us. I made the dessert and he supplied the ice cream to go with it. We called my sister, Nancy, in Kiameshia, N.Y., to wish her well during the spring and on this very special day.

The past few weeks juncos have returned in a large number. They spend most of the day eating from the feeders and what has blown onto the ground. After several days of this, I noticed that I have hardly seen a chickadee. Once again I had never noticed this kind of happening. Everything seems to be different this year.

I just hope the bear will keep away. I think it is about time to do what Game Warden Clukey from Andover told Leon, which is to hang clothes on trees about waist high. Then go around to each cloth and drop them into a glass of bleach. I made the mistake last year of using my hands. It took weeks for the bleach burns on my fingers to heal.

Leaving the ATM machine recently, I noticed a large robin in flying up to the window box in front of the Bethel Police Department. It was eating the red berries in the box. I noticed on Monday as I drove by that there wasn't a red berry left.

I did talk to Karlene Bachelder on Saturday. She was feeling better but still had not received her test results. She did mention that she and Gilbert Seeley had enjoyed a lunch at The Cinnamon Stick Café.

The Hanover Planning Board met on Wednesday, April 4.

They voted to recommend the acceptance of the revised Hanover Flood Plain Ordinance, and during a workshop after the meeting the Board worked on a proposal for a Driveway Entrance Ordinance for the town of Hanover. It is expected that these ordinances and revisions to several others will go to the voters in a special Town Meeting in June.

The Public Hearing to discuss the proposed Kohut Subdivision will be at the Hanover Town House next Wednesday, April 18, starting at 6 p.m. Citizens' comments are important in helping the Planning Board make a decision in this controversial topic.

The Hanover Select Board will meet next Tuesday, April 17, at the Town Office at 5 p.m.

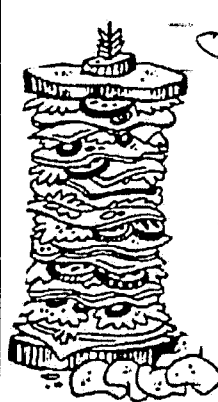

Lorraine Gallant went to the Rumford Hospital by ambulance last week and was later transferred to Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston. We send Lorraine get-well wishes.

The ice left the Androscoggin River through Hanover on Tuesday, April 3, always a good sign of the approaching spring. Not such a good sign of spring was the huge snowstorm of Wednesday and Thursday. By the time the storm had ended there were 16 inches of new snow and more than a few stuck cars and snowplows. Because the surface of the ground had thawed out, snowplows dug up a few lawns.

Easter Sunday was a nice day, a mix of sun and clouds although somewhat cool. Fran

Mahoosuc Land Trust

The Mahoosuc Land Trust will offer the fourth and final program of its Local Knowledge Series for this season in Trustees' Auditorium, McLaughlin Science Center on the Gould Academy campus in Bethel on April 18 at 7 p.m.

Christopher Mattrick will speak on invasive plants.

Chris is the forest botanist/plant ecologist and non-native invasive species coordinator for the White Mountain National Forest.

He is a member of the advisory board for the Invasive Plant Atlas of New England, and serves as that organization's regional management and control authority. Chris was formerly the Senior Conservation Programs manager for the New England Wild Flower Society.

He managed endangered and invasive plant management projects, and the society's plant conservation volunteer program. He has a B.S. in Natural Resource Management from the University of Vermont and a M.S. in Environmental Studies from Antioch New England.

The Mahoosuc Land Trust is pleased to offer this series to the public free of charge.

We invite you to join us for an evening of entertaining botanical discovery on April 18 at 7 p.m.

Goose-Eye Institute

Spring 2007 marks the shift from "Creative Economy Education Initiative" to The Goose-Eye Institute for Creative Economy Education. The new name originates in Goose-Eye Mountain and trail, part of the Mahoosuc Range in Riley Plantation. The name embodies our connection to the land and our sense of place in the beautiful Bethel area. It also captures our sense of community.

When wild geese fly in a "V" formation, each bird creates uplift for the bird immediately following. The "V" formation enables the whole flock to fly longer and farther than if each bird flew alone. People who share a common goal and community will get where they are going more quickly and easily if they "fly in formation", helping each other along the way.

Goose-Eye Institute continues working with the local creative economy, providing an educational framework that encourages creative micro-entrepreneurs to share their knowledge and experience with the local community and beyond. Goose-Eye offers a variety of courses in Fine Art, Heritage Craft, Movement, Holistic Health, and more.

Goose-Eye is working with a local Web developer to create a new website listing all the latest course offerings. The goal is to make information more readily available in a fluid, easy-to-update format. Please check out the site at www.goose-eye.org.

Goose-Eye is also linked to the Bethel Chamber of Commerce website, www.bethel-maine.com.

Greenwell named to NMA advisory board

The National Meningitis Association (NMA) recently appointed Bethel resident, Jeri Greenwell, to its advisory board for her efforts in promoting awareness of meningococcal disease and prevention methods.

In April 2003, Jerry and Jeri Greenwell lost their son, Jerry, to meningococcal disease. Greenwell joined the NMA's "Moms on Meningitis" (M.O.M) program after Jerry's unexpected and tragic death and has been tireless in her efforts to educate local families about the dangers of bacterial meningitis and the importance of prevention.

"When I found out that Jerry's death could have been prevented with a simple vaccine, I was shocked," says Greenwell. "I'm trying to provide other parents with the information they need to protect their children."

As a member of NMA's M.O.M program, Greenwell has proactively coordinated a number of events to raise both funds and awareness for the disease. She is also currently helping to rally support from the Boston Red Sox in airing a short public service announcement (PSA) on meningococcal disease awareness during home games.

"This infection can kill an otherwise healthy, young person in a matter of hours," continues Greenwell. "Minutes count, so it's crucial for parents and their children to know the symptoms and see a doctor at the first signs of infection."

Meningococcal disease is a rare, but serious bacterial infection that strikes nearly 3,000 Americans each year. Early symptoms of meningococcal disease resemble those of the flu and may include sudden onset of fever, headache and stiff neck. As the disease progresses, a rash may also appear. The disease is transmitted through air droplets and direct contact with respiratory secretions from infected persons (e.g. coughing, kissing or sharing utensils, drinking glasses, cigarettes, etc.). Adolescents and young adults are at increased risk of meningococcal disease and account for nearly 30 percent of cases in the U.S. Up to 83 percent of cases among adolescents and young adults are potentially vaccine-preventable.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends routine meningococcal vaccination for young adolescents at the preadolescent doctor's visit (age 11 to 12). For those who have not previously been vaccinated, immunization is recommended at high school entry or at about age 15 (whichever comes first) and for college freshmen living in dormitories. Additionally, the CDC states that all other adolescents and college students wishing to reduce their risk may elect to be immunized.

NMA is a nonprofit organization founded by five parents whose children have died or who live with permanent disabilities from meningococcal disease. NMA's mission is to educate families, medical professionals and others about bacterial meningitis and prevention approaches to the disease. For additional information visit www.nmaus.org.

Besides the new website, you can find the course guide on the SAD44 website, www.sad44.org. Just click on the "Community" button, then click on "Adult Education."

You will find both the Goose-Eye and the SAD44 Continuing Education course guides in pdf format on that page. With the help of Lainey Cross, current listings also appear on Bethel's local access Channel 2.

Paper copies of the Goose-Eye Institute course guide were mailed recently; if you did not receive one in your mailbox, stop by your local library to pick up a copy.

Foundation

The Oxford County Committee of the Maine Community Foundation recently awarded $12,500 in grants to six Oxford County nonprofit organizations.

Among the funded programs is the Sebago-Long Lake Region Chamber Music Festival, a community-based project that engages young audiences in chamber music through interactive educational experiences. Celebrating its 35th year, the festival holds free concerts during the summer and aims to make chamber music relevant and approachable to children and teens.

Other grant awards went to: Maine Lakes Conservancy Institute, Nobleboro, for the Lake Science Education Program, a field-based learning and interactive classroom experience for local schoolchildren;

Oxford Hills Community Education Exchange, Oxford, for drumming workshops at the Otisfield Community School; Susan L. Curtis Foundation, Portland, to provide area youth with the opportunity to

Western Maine University and Community College Center

Educators and students at all levels seeking courses toward teacher certification or development will find a generous variety offered at the WMUCC campus this summer. Registration for all University of Maine System summer sessions begins April 12 for the general public. Classes begin May 21.

Courses are taught by university faculty at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Students may choose from courses offered on-site at the center, online, and via interactive television at the center and at Telstar High School in Bethel.

Courses such as "Response to Intervention Methods for General and Special Education" and "Practical Strategies for Meeting the Needs of Diverse Learners," are just two of the graduate courses offered this summer specifically for current or future educators. The schedule includes courses in special education, early childhood education, elementary and secondary education, telecommunications, and more.

"We are happy to be able to offer courses for educators right here in our community," said Nikki Abbott, director of WMUCC. "Our staff can help students put together a program that will help them achieve their career goals."

The University of Maine System provides statewide access to courses, degrees and support services for those who cannot pursue studies on a University System campus. University College centers offer a variety of UMS graduate and undergraduate degree and certificate programs and provide computer labs and personalized support services, including tutoring, financial aid assistance, and career counseling.

For a complete listing of spring semester education courses, visit www.learn.maine.edu/pdf/educatorsflyersum07.pdf or contact Nikki Abbott or Shannon Moxcey at WMUCC by calling 743-9322.

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

Among the anniversaries to be observed during 2007 is the centenary of the Organization of American Historians, the largest professional organization of its type devoted solely to the dissemination and study of American history. Originally founded as the Mississippi Valley Historical Association in 1907, it became the Organization of American Historians in 1964 and claims 9,500 members today. Initially, the MVHS was composed of white men writing about the history of white men.

Today the organization is much more diverse with women comprising about a third of the membership. Ethnic and racial diversity has also increased with about 7 percent identifying themselves as African-American, Latino/Asian or Native American. Along with these changes has been the rise of social and cultural history as well as a focus on specific groups including African-Americans and women.

The OAH publishes a "Magazine of History," a newsletter and the "Journal of American History." It also devotes considerable effort and resources to improving and enriching the teaching of American history for high school and university students.

Also observing an anniversary this year is the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, commonly known as the Grange. It was founded 140 years ago this year in Washington, D.C., in 1867. It soon became a national organization, arriving in Maine in 1873. The first Grange in Bethel was organized as Bethel Grange 56 on 13 November 1874. This was followed by Pleasant Valley Grange 136 being organized in 29 March 1875 in West Bethel and Alder River Grange 145 on 12 March 1875 in Greenwood by charter members who were primarily residents of East Bethel. Today Bethel has two Granges, the one at West Bethel and that at East Bethel.

The Grange was founded largely in response to the perceived need to give farmers and others in rural areas greater opportunities to ship goods to market without burdensome shipping charges and to obtain insurance and necessities from fertilizer to farm tools at reasonable rates through cooperative purchasing.

The Grange also took an early interest in education. Often the topic at meetings was a discussion of issues facing the farmer. It supported reforms in public education, the University of Maine at Orono, and Rural Free Delivery. The Grange was also the first major organization to give women equal rights in the Order. It also sponsored libraries in the halls, and was in many ways the adult education program for many families in isolated communities prior to the creation of the Extension Service in 1914.

Today the Grange continues as an important community organization dedicated to serving rural areas and recognizing the contributions of many citizens to their towns and neighborhoods.

April is Grange month, so it is important at this time of year to remember the Grange's rich past and its current role of public service to many areas of this state and the nation.

With nearly 1,400 members, the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time historical agency, dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the regional past for present and future generations. For over forty years, the society's activities have included lectures, exhibits, special events,

SENIOR PLAYS THIS WEEKEND
Western Mountains Senior Players will open their spring production with the comedy, "If Sherlock Holmes Were a Woman," one of eight plays to be performed under the direction of Lynn Arizzi. The setting of the play is a college dormitory where Shirley Holmes, (alias Sherlock Holmes) played by Mary Colbath, must investigate the suspicious death of housemother, Mrs. Hudson, played by Mary-Ellen Gartner. Shown seated (from left): Lorrie Hoeh and Arita Zitoli. Standing: Carole Timberlake, Colbath, Joanne Morse, Roberta Taylor and Gartner. The performances will take place April 14 at 7 p.m. and April 15 at 2:30 p.m. at Gould Academy's McLaughlin Science Center Auditorium. A second performance was added this spring to accommodate the growing numbers of playgoers. The public is invited and admission is free. However, donations will be accepted to honor royalty fees.

heritage festivals, workshops, conferences, school and educational programs, and publications. In 1974, the society acquired the former Broad Street residence of Dr. Moses Mason, which now contains a period house museum, exhibit hall and research library. In 1999, the society opened the O'Neil Robinson House (next door at 10 Broad Street) to the public for an expanded exhibit program, museum shop space, and administrative offices. Through the years, the society's achievements have been recognized by a number of state and national organizations.

Further information about the society and its activities may be obtained by calling 824-2908 or (80) 824-2910, or by sending an e-mail to info@bethelhistorical.org. Additional information can also be obtained by checking the society's website at www.bethelhistorical.org. The society's mailing address is P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012.

From Western Mountains Senior College

Last Thursday's April snow didn't stop fourteen Senior Players from gathering at Gould Academy's McLaughlin Science Center Auditorium for their first dress rehearsal.

At today's final dress rehearsal, the "Red Hats" will provide an audience to prepare the Senior Players for their public performance this weekend on Saturday, April 14 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, April 15, at 2:30 p.m. A second performance date was added this spring to accommodate the growing number of playgoers.

Eight plays offer a variety of comic and serious skits. The performance opens with a comedy set in a girls' dorm room, "If Sherlock Holmes Were a Woman," by Tim Kelley. Next, a comedy excerpt from Neil Simon's "The Sunshine Boys," presents some hilarious moments. A comical farce, "Soap Opera" by David Ives, follows the traumatic life of the Maypole (alias Maytag) repairman.

Other plays include a fast-paced comedy skit about the Old West, "Cactus Juice Saloon" by Jean Vetter; "Joan" by Robert Mauro, a tender scene from the life of Joan of Arc; "The Death of the Hired Man" by Robert Frost, the familiar, dramatic poem; and a comedy excerpt from "The Odd Couple" by Neil Simon. The performance ends with "Medea" by Christopher Durang and Wendy Wasserstein, a comedy with the same storyline as the Greek tragedy and supported by a six-member chorus line.

The fourteen senior college members, five of them new to the troupe, joined the winter/spring course offered by Western Mountains Senior College in February. They've enjoyed learning to develop their characters, especially since no memorization of lines is required and they can carry their scripts with them. Veteran cast members include Joe Arizzi, Mary Kay Colbath, Mary-Ellen and Peter Gartner, Lorrie Hoeh, Sharon Lyon, Joanne Morse, Karen Paul and Rosabelle Tift. Watch for the antics of new troupers Ross Timberlake and Walter Brough in "The Odd Couple," and dramatic appearances of Carole Timberlake, Roberta Taylor and Arita Zitoli in "If Sherlock Holmes Were a Woman." All members are cast in several plays. Experienced director Lynn Arizzi says, "She loves seeing the characters in the plays come to life due to the concentration of these cast members."

LITTLE WALKER—Jenn Bean's daughter, Madison, will walk with her mom in this year's WalkAmerica in Bethel, scheduled for May 6. The event raises funds for the March of Dimes, which helps fund research on birth defects and other efforts to improve the health of newborns. Madison, 3, was born eight weeks premature. Anyone wishing to participate may register at WalkAmerica.org or call 824-3539.

WMSC Spring Social
WMSC members and nonmembers (who wish to join) are in for a treat at the annual Spring Social to be held on Thursday, April 19, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the Gehring House, 77 Broad Street. Stacy Sahin of the Victoria Inn will talk about the benefits and pleasures of tea and introduce the members to a number of her special blends. She'll even have a few of her favorites for sale. Members who wish may bring along their own china teacup to add to the enjoyment of the tea! Refreshments will include a sampling of Stacy's tasty desserts as well as punch and coffee.

One of the reasons for the Spring Social, besides the pleasure of getting together with friends over tasty food, is to sign up for spring courses and learn about all the other opportunities available to WMSC members. Be sure to call or e-mail your RSVP to Jackie Cressy by April 16 to help with planning: Call 824-0508 or e-mail Jackie at rivendel@megalink.net.

Critique or Workshops on Loss and Grief

Committee members who planned the recent "To Your Health Series" of workshops on recognizing and coping with loss and grief held a critique breakfast meeting recently at the Victoria Inn as a form of celebrating the success of the series. From all reports, the series was very professional and successful and met the goals set by the committee. The group agreed that the workshops might be worth repeating in about two years, as new people would be in need of the information. The Garland Chapel of West Parish Congregational Church, offered as a community service, provided an ideal site for this type of program.

The committee plans to research into the possibility of starting support groups sometime in the future if a core group of trained volunteers becomes available. Jim Douglas, Hospice Bereavement Coordinator for Androscoggin Home Care and Hospice (AHCH) said part of the mission of AHCH is to provide support groups and that they would provide training, oversight and support. Jim is also interested in knowing if schools would be interested in partnering with AHCH for volunteer support

From

Gould Academy

On Tuesday night, April 3, competitive Gould athletes during the 2006-2007 winter season were recognized during a sports awards ceremony. The 2006-2007 season was highly successful in many respects. A few highlights include the Varsity Boys Basketball Team emerging as Western Maine Class D Champions, a sweep of first-place victories for the Gould Prep Ski Team at MAISADS, and the FIS Development men and women, who took first and second place in the NEPSACs. Ian Siekman, senior and captain of the Boys' Basketball Team, received the Charles Hurd Award, given to a player who has gone above and beyond athletic expectations. Ian added to his program by helping younger players and being a wonderful role model and a leader on his team. Below is a list of sports awards. (Prep Snowboarding awards are to be announced.)

Boys' Varsity Basketball: Most Improved: Evan Bruens; Boys' Varsity Basketball, Sportsmanship: Seth Gray; Boys' JV Basketball: Eddie Rogers; Girls' Varsity Basketball, Most Improved: Brittany Rogers; Girls' Varsity Basketball, Sportsmanship: Carol Lin.
Boys' Varsity Prep Alpine Ski Racing, Most Improved: Georg Eschweiler; Boys' Varsity Prep Alpine Ski Racing, Sportsmanship: Tyler Hodsdon; Boys' JV Prep Alpine Ski Racing, Most Improved: Luke Paliocha; Boys' JV Prep Alpine Ski Racing JV Award: Luke Paliocha.
Girls' JV Prep Alpine Ski Racing JV Award: Nathalie Wuensch; Women's Varsity Prep Alpine Ski Racing, Most Improved: Lilly Goebel. Women's Varsity rep Alpine Ski Racing, Sportsmanship: Hannah Cowan.
Boys Cross Country Skiing, Most Improved: Jeff Lewis; Boys' Cross Country Skiing, Sportsmanship: Peter Cowan; Girls' Cross Country Skiing, Most Improved: Farley Casselman; Girls' Cross Country Skiing, Sportsmanship: Hana Gilmancounselor.

AND THE SEASON CONTINUES—April's weather will apparently provide diehard cross-country skiers with another weekend on the snow. A Connecticut couple recently took to the trails at Carter's Cross-Country Ski Center in Bethel.

BEFORE BUYING A HOME!
Where do you start when you are ready to buy a home? Before you begin looking for a home, you have to make some decisions. You need to decide what is important to you when purchasing your home. Before starting out on your home search it is a good idea to sit down and develop a list of what is important and what would you like in your new home. Your list could include schools, neighborhood, amenities, number of bedrooms, number of baths, a basement, a separate dining room, 2-story family room or foyer, one level ranch plan, master bedroom on the main level, special financing, seller willing to cover closing costs and the list goes on and on.
An experienced buyer real estate agent can help you through the process. There is no such thing as a perfect house, therefore once you have developed your list you should begin to prioritize it. You can prioritize into, "must have", "should have" and "would be nice to have". By having a clear understanding what you want in your new home, and the priority of those items, you will be in a much better position to decide whether you want to put an offer on a house you see and like. It is also a good idea to consider whether you want to purchase a new or pre-owned home.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

WHAT'S THE MAGIC NUMBER?

When you make an offer on a house your biggest decision is how much to offer. You want to pay a fair price, and sometimes it is hard to predict how much is "enough" for the sellers.

Some sellers price their homes at their bottom line and may be unwilling to negotiate, unless the house has been on the market for a long time. Others build in a little room for negotiation. Some sellers are more motivated than others to get their homes sold. Whatever your situation, it is hard to know what sellers will do until they are presented with an offer. If your bid is very low and the sellers have more attractive offers, they may just not respond. If your original proposal is unacceptable, the seller will usually make a counter offer. While sellers like to get their asking prices, good listing agents prepare them for the possibility of receiving offers that involve some compromises.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771

Obituaries

R. DOUGLAS HUTCHINSON

R. Douglas Hutchinson, 79, of Byron, died Monday, April 2, 2007 at the Rumford Community Home.

Born in Mexico, Oct. 15, 1927, he was raised by Ellen and Fred Hutchinson. He was a graduate of Mexico High School with the Class of 1945. He worked for Boise Cascade as a millwright for over 40 years.

He was a member of the Mexico/Rumford Historical Society, King Hiram Lodge 57, Scottish Rite Valley of Lewiston and Auburn, and the Shrine Club. He wrote the book "Rumford Rangeley Lakes Railroad."

He was married to the late Pearl McKinnon, and then

In Loving Memory of Jerry Greenwell, Jr. 1979-2003

Parable of Immortality

I am standing upon the seashore. A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the ocean.

She is an object of beauty and strength, and I stand and watch her until she hangs like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and the sky come down to mingle with each other.

Then someone at my side says: "There! She's gone!" Gone where? Gone from my sight that is all.

She is just as large in mast and hull and spar as she was when she left my side, and just as able to bear her load of living freight to the place of destination.

Her diminished size is in me, not in her, and just at the moment when someone at my side says, "There! She's gone!"

There are other eyes watching her coming, and other voices ready to take up the shout, "There she comes!"

-Henry Van Dyke

married Irene Young, who survives of Byron.

Other survivors include a son, Mark Hutchinson and his wife Janice of Spokane, Wash.; daughters, Colleen Hutchinson of Falmouth, Rhonda Warner and her husband Michael of Maryland, Heidi Villacci of Bethel, Lynn Cooper of St. Croix, and Shannon Atinson and her husband Adam of Buckfield; stepsons, Howard Noyes and his wife Tammy of Byron and David Noyes of Byron; 20 grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; a brother, Leon Dragoon and his wife Mary of Colorado; sisters, Edythe Porter and her husband Ellery of Peru, Jenesta Brown and her husband Frank of Buckfield, Beverly Johnson and her husband Wil of Texas, and Ruth Lewis of Massachusetts. He was predeceased by his first wife, Pearl McKinnon; and a daughter, Lorre Hutchinson.

Graveside services will be held in the spring at the Farrington Morton Cemetery in Mexico. Those who desire may contribute to the Mexico Historical Society, 3 Oxford Street, Mexico, ME 04257 in his memory. Online condolences and shared memories may be expressed at meaderfh@gwi.net.

Card of Thanks

The family of Roenell C. Cummings, Sr. wish to express our appreciation to all who showed their support during our time of sorrow. Thank you to those who gave your prayers and condolences, those who brought food, sent flowers and offered comfort, and to those who donated to the American Cancer Society in his memory. We also wish to thank Andrews Funeral Home, and the Fryeburg Fair Boys—Oliver Nicholas and Norm DeCoteau, and Pastor Lloyd Waterhouse for helping us to honor and pay tribute to him.

BERTHA IDA STEVENS

Bertha Ida Stevens, 93 of Bethel, died April 9, 2007 at Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, surrounded by her family.

She was born in Greenwood on May 21, 1913, the daughter of Ralph and Alice (Rowe) Herrick. She attended Patch Mountain schools and graduated from South Paris High School in 1932; the same year she married Clyde A. Stevens. They were married 64 years before his death in 1996.

Bertha was a member of the Mothers Club of Bethel and the Ladies Circle of Locke Mills.

She is survived by one son, Paul Stevens of Rumford; five daughters, Charlotte Rowe of Raymond, Beatrice Hicks of Gardiner, Florence Walker of Bryant Pond, Christine Ulrickson of Norway and Cheryl Young of Bethel; one sister, Pearl Chapman of Norway; a daughter-in-law, Janice Stevens of North Haven, Conn.; 22 grandchildren; 35 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband; one son, David Stevens; two brothers, Leonard and Lawrence; and three sisters, Eva Pierce, Mabel Herrick, and Rose Rand.

A celebration of her life will be held on Sunday, May 13, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the home of her daughter, Cheryl Young at 875 Walkers Mills Road, Bethel. Memorials in her memory are requested to a charity of your choice.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank our sons Ray & Shawn Crockett, our parent's Alice & Ken Hoyt, Lola & Clayton Crockett and our brothers & sisters for the 25th Anniversary party they gave us.

Thank you to family & friends for the gifts and cards.

David & JoAnn Crockett

ANNE B. S. DRUMMOND

Anne Bradstreet Strahan Drummond, 89, formerly of 340 Eastern Promenade, Portland, died on April 4, 2007, at Gorham House, Gorham, following a lengthy illness.

Born on Sept. 26, 1917, at Wellesley Hills, Mass., she was the eldest child of Byron Bradstreet and Miriam Pratt Strahan. Following her father's death and her mother's subsequent marriage to John Thomas Gyger, she moved to Cumberland Foreside and attended the Waynflete School, graduating with the Class of 1934. At the age of 16, she went on to Smith College with the Class of 1938.

Following her graduation from Smith, she did volunteer work for the Portland Thrift Shop, an enterprise of the Portland Junior League. Following Mr. Gyger's death, she served as manager of Five Fields Farm, an apple orchard located in South Bridgton.

On Nov. 30, 1940, she married Josiah Hayden Drummond, a Portland attorney. Save the wartime years, the Drummonds resided in Portland, first in the West End where they brought up their family of five children and then as owners of a Promenade East condominium on Munjoy Hill. The family spent summers at their East Sebago cottage. With her husband, Mrs. Drummond enjoyed spring trolling for Sebago landlocked salmon, golf at the Naples Golf Club, and travels, which took her to six continents.

Mrs. Drummond was an active volunteer and board member for numerous community organizations, including the Northeast Hearing and Speech Center, Community Counseling Center, the Community Chest and successor United Way of Greater Portland, the National Society of Colonial Dames in Maine and its Tate House Museum, the Smith College Club of Maine, and Maine Medical Center.

A long-time member of State Street Congregational Church, she, more recently, was a parishioner at Portland's Anglican Cathedral of St. Paul.

Mr. Drummond died in January 1991. Survivors include two daughters, Cynthia D. Choate of Sebago and Nancy D. Tindal and husband Bruce of Boothbay; three sons, Josiah H. Drummond Jr. and wife Joanna of Bethel, James W. Drummond and wife Jean of Center Conway, N.H., and Andrew L. Drummond of Freedom, N.H.; 15 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. Also surviving are two sisters, Joyce G. McCarthy of Manchester, Mass., and Jean L. Black of Peru, Vt.; and two brothers, Waldo P. Strahan of Cumberland Foreside and David E. Gyger of Sydney, Australia. A sister and brother, Miriam Patricia Strahan of Wrentham, Mass., and John T. Gyger Jr. of Bridgton, predeceased her.

The family expresses sincere appreciation to the staff of Gorham House and Beacon Hospice for their compassionate and skillful care.

Following a private interment at Portland's Evergreen Cemetery, a memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. on Thursday, April 26, at the State Street Church, UCC, 159 State Street, Portland.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorial gifts may be directed to: The Maine Medical Center Memorial Fund, 22 Bramhall Street, Portland, ME 04102; Northeast Hearing and Speech Center, 43 Baxter Blvd., Portland, ME 04101 or The Alzheimer's Association of Maine, 163 Lancaster Street, Portland, ME 04101.
